Temperatures and climates in Botswana

Discover the best time to visit the different regions of Botswana depending on the temperatures.

Botswana has a climate that varies with the seasons. The most pleasant and sunniest months are from May to October. It is hot to very hot in the north of the country during the day but at nightfall the temperatures drop. Some areas of the desert freeze. The rainy season from November to April should be avoided. Some nature reserves and roads are impassable.

Below you will find an overview of the average monthly temperatures per RV rental centre
