Vancouver is a wonderful starting point to explore the wild splendor of the Canadian Rockies. This city of great ethnic diversity is surrounded on three sides by water. There are many bridges connecting the city centre to the suburbs. To enjoy a panoramic view of the city, head to the north shore by Lions Gate Bridge and up Capilano Road where a cable car will take you to the top of Grouse Mountain. The mountains that form the backdrop in Vancouver are never far away.

Take a walk in Stanley Park where red cedars, maple, spruce and pine trees line the beaches. Don't forget a visit to Chinatown.
