

Gennargentu National Park

An exceptional site

The Gennargentu National Park is located in the mid-eastern area of Sardinia and is home to some exceptional natural sites including the Gennargentu Massive, the Supramonte Plateau and the Gulf of Orosei. There are landscapes of forests, hills and plateaus, as well as caves and a wild coastline extending over 70 000 hectares.

Gennargentu National Park is truly a unique natural site. Admire the limestone cliffs, underground rivers and beautiful coves. Don't miss Su Gorropu Canyon, the Su Bentu and Sa Oche Caves and the Lanaittu Valley. The fauna is very varied and includes deer, wild cats, foxes and birds of prey. Furthermore, Sardinia is very accessible to motorhomes.