Swakopmund is a difficult name to remember but it is in fact emblematic of the city's history. The city was developed around the Swakop River by German settlers in the 19th century, hence the name and the unusual mix of German and African architecture. The city, with its interesting architecture, has, over time, turned into a large seaside resort, although it is not swimmer's paradise but rather a shark's paradise! Swakopmund will be a surprising and interesting part of your Namibian road trip. It has a population of 45 000 and is situated between the Skeleton Coast and the Namib Desert. It is perfect for a stop over or a departure or return of your camping car, motorhome or 4x4.
