

Lake Powell, the best activities to do

Do not miss the best of Lake Powell

Located within Glen Canyon Park, Lake Powell is an essential stop on a road trip in the American West. An artificial lake more than 300 km long and up to 170 m deep and with very clear water, it offers a majestic setting composed of red and ocher rocks, cliffs, islands, canyons, meanders, caves, and arches ... and above all is a fantastic recreation area where various activities are possible.

A little boat ride

Embark on canoes, houseboats or ferries, surely one of the best ways to enjoy the lake. The boat will allow you to pass between the narrow gorges that lead to paradisiac coves fringed with small beaches suitable for swimming and picnics.

Tips ? For the rental of small boats, no permit is required

The jet ski has all the advantages of the boat to discover Lake Powell also offering you some thrills.

Make your flight baptism by helicopter

Taking a little height is surely the best way to have one of the most beautiful views of the lake and canyons. You will appreciate the vastness and beauty of Lake Powell. You will not fail to be captivated by the beauty of the site !!
Tip? A little afraid of the helicopter, no problem, some agencies offer the ride by plane.

Rainbow Bridge Tour

Lake Powell is home to beautiful water and wind sculpted arches, such as Stevens Arch, Coyote Bridge or Gorge Arch. But the most wonderful of all is the Rainbow Bridge, a natural bridge with 83 m span and 87m high. Tips? To walk the paths to discover it, it is necessary to obtain a permit to access the site from the Navajo authorities
